Terahertz and Terahertz Wand Scientific Resources

With the terahertz frequencies and terahertz technology being relatively new many people ask for additional resources to study on the subject. Since Terahertz Wands are not classified as medical device but rather “health and wellness” they do not go through the same types of requirements with regulatory agencies. There are still many studies and information coming from scientific organizations and people and some of that is presented below. If anyone has anything they would like to share please email us at our “Contact us” page. It is a community effort to share information that helps everyone. See some of the studies and information below.

Terahertz “The Frequency of Life”

Terahertz Rock and Mineral Deposits are found in various parts of the world and are also very popular being used as jewelry.

Some frequencies in the terahertz (THz) range correspond to collective vibrations of biological molecules such as DNA and proteins. It is also the frequency of the hydrogen bonding network of water which makes up 70% of body weight.

Terahertz frequencies are also referred to as “THZ” frequency and also terahertz wands are also referred to as terahertz blower and THZ devices.

Benefits of Terahertz Water

Watch this short video to see many of the benefits of drinking terahertz charged water. Drinking this water is recommended with the devices for increasing hydration levels and achieving a better outcome with the wands.

Technology and love form a fire of hope

1. Quickly dredge the meridians;
2. Unblock the lymph and unblock the microcirculation
3. Smooth microcirculation;
4. Activating human cells;

not only activating epidermal cells, but also activating organs, muscles, epidermal cells, and activating and repairing layer by layer

5. Deeply dispel cold and dampness

instead of discharging the surface, it is discharging the cold and dampness of the viscera, bone marrow, epidermis, dispelling cold and dampness layer by layer
