Qest4 - The World's #1 Bioenergetic Testing System

What is the Qest4?

The Qest4 is a combination of MSA, EDS, bio-energetic testing and bio-feedback all in one. Qest4 is a system designed for health practitioners with the following purposes:

- To provide insight and information about clients' health needs that cannot be obtained from case history, questioning or simple observation through a series of comprehensive scans.
- To apply that information directly in support of healing and health creation by way of built-in 'informational' treatments;
- To assist the practitioner in recommending traditional therapies appropriate to the clients' needs.

How Does It Work?

The Qest4 software contains digitally-encoded information relating to a wide range of health factors that is output by the Qest4 hardware as electromagnetic signals during testing. Using a simple low voltage circuit created by holding two brass cylinders or hand-masses, the response of the body to those signals is recorded by measuring changes in the electrical resistance of the skin. This information is relayed back to the software and a report is generated on the computer of any responses that are outside certain limits.

Scans may also be provided remotely using a DNA sample of hair and/or nails. Details available on website.
